

Lake of the Woods
Canoe Routes

Ena Lake to Vermillion Lake

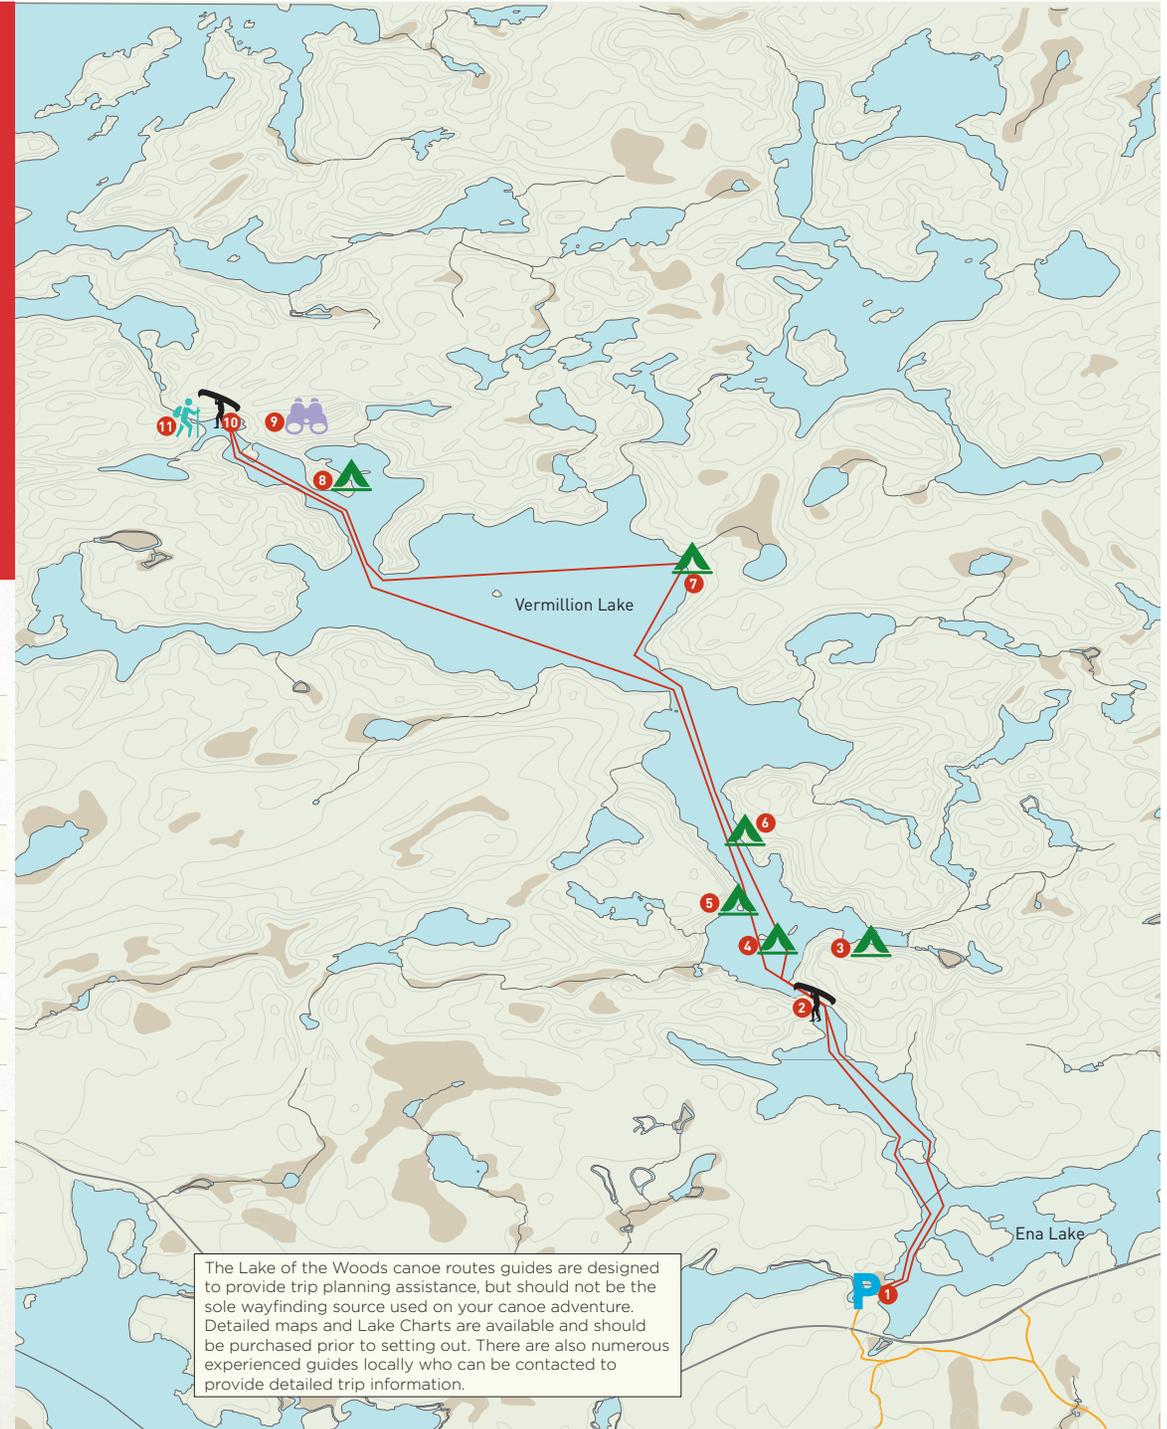

Total Distance: 25.9 km

Total Days: 2-3

Portages: 1

Difficulty: Moderate

Ena Lake to Vermillion Lake - The put-in for this trip is on Ena Lake with plenty of parking and a dock to make your launch easy. You will paddle past a few cabins before coming to the short portage into Vermillion Lake. With no residences you will love the feeling of seclusion despite only being a few kilometers from your vehicle. Large granite cliffs, dense forest and numerous islands to camp on make this an excellent route to explore. Be sure to check out the beach, hiking trails and waterfalls at the northwest end of the lake where Vermillion spills into Big Sand Lake.

Ena Lake to Vermillion Lake

1	49.82726, -93.71283	P	Put in	Put in, Boat Launch, Free Parking
2	50.00567, -94.5384		Portage	Portage, beach landing, easy portage up hill, good trail (Approx 150 Meters)
3	50.01262, -94.53237		Possible camp site	Turtle Island
4	50.0124, -94.54313		Possible camp site
5	50.01566, -94.54625		Possible camp site
6	50.02293, -94.54652		Possible camp site	Smooth Rocky camping spot
7	50.0505, -94.5521		Possible camp site	Beach and camping spot
8	50.06015, -94.58421		Possible camp site	Island camping spot
9	50.06446, -94.58988		Lookout
10	50.06521, -94.60127		Portage	Beach, waterfall and portage/hiking trail to Big Sand Lake
11	50.06554, -94.59996		Hiking trail

The Lake of the Woods canoe routes guides are designed to provide trip planning assistance, but should not be the sole wayfinding source used on your canoe adventure. Detailed maps and Lake Charts are available and should be purchased prior to setting out. There are also numerous experienced guides locally who can be contacted to provide detailed trip information.

Special thanks to our project partners:

